

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	11
Introduction	13
Chapter 1
Sahagún's Education and Franciscan Training in Spain	37
Sahagún's Intellectual Origins: From Early Education to the University of Salamanca	39
Sahagún's Religious Education: The Friary of San Francisco	47
Chapter 2:
Sahagún and the Spiritual Conquest of New Spain	63
The Imperial College of Santa Cruz in Santiago de Tlatelolco.	66
Sahagún's Composition of Linguistic and Doctrinal Works in Nahuatl	82
Books on Antiquities and Geographical Accounts	99
Chapter 3:
Sahagún's Intellectual Models for the Composition of Historia universal	111
Sahagún and the Encyclopaedic Tradition	113
The Influence of Christian Works on Historia universal ..	129
Chapter 4:
Inquisitorial Techniques as Sahagún's Method of Data Collection	151
The Inquisition in Spain and New Spain during the First Half of the Sixteenth Century	155

Olmos and Sahagún's Application of the Inquisitorial Techniques to the Collection of Indigenous Data	169
The Origin of Sahagún's Questions	185
Chapter 5:
The Composition of Historia universal: Sahagún, the Respondents, and the Assistants	199
The Nahuatl Respondents' Role	201
The Nahuatl Assistants' Role	211
Sahagún's Role	223
Conclusion	241
Appendix I:
Contents of Historia universal	251
Appendix II
Comparison of Contents	259
Appendix III
Sahagún's Rearrangement of Contents.. . . .	275
Bibliography	281
Index	313